FOREWORD

Although twenty-four years have elapsed since the British Broadcasting Company began its daily programmes from Savoy Hill, there is still no up-to-date reference book concerning the thousands of people connected with broadcasting.

For this reason alone "Radio Who's Who" will prove invaluable to theatrical and film producers, as well as radio and television producers, artists' booking agencies and radio journalists. And it is hoped that, as well as being a useful reference book, it will also prove readable and entertaining to listeners and "fans."

Everything possible has been done to eliminate errors and, as the biographical details have been supplied in nearly every case by the persons concerned, readers may be reasonably confident of their factual accuracy. The style in many cases is intentionally informal—thus helping to preserve the individuality of style of those whose biographies are included. More important than any possible minor inaccuracy will be the omissions inevitable in a pioneer volume—some of them due to the rapid expansion of radio during war years. That they are mainly the result of failure to contact the people concerned further stresses the need for a radio reference book. Apologies are offered to all such people and their co-operation in rectifying omissions in subsequent editions will be welcomed.

Grateful thanks are tendered to all those whose kind co-operation has made the book possible, and most particularly to the B.B.C., without whose friendly help the difficulties of compiling it might well have proved insuperable.

ABRAHAM, GERALD ERNEST HEAL.

ACLAND, RICHARD (Sir).
Has taken part in many talks and discussions mostly of a political nature. b. London, 9th June, 1906. His first connections with radio were the "Week in Westminster" programmes in 1937-9. Address: Killerton, Budlake, Exeter. In 1935 he was elected Liberal Member of Parliament for North Devon. He co-operated in founding the Common Wealth movement which he supported 1942-5. Became a member of Tiverton Divisional Labour Party in October, 1945. In 1936 married Anne Stella Alford, A.R.I.B.A. Has three sons. Sir Richard Acland has very definite views on radio and thinks that the present policy of trying not to offend anybody means, in effect though not in intention, that all views in support of the status quo are tolerable; all views which really demand a rejection of the basic principles of the new age are "intolerable"—because they offend someone. He contends that there should be regular, uncensored controversy about all contentious subjects.

ADAM, KENNETH.

ADAM, PAUL.
Band Leader. b. London, 31st October, 1914. Best known for "Mayfair Music." Address: 5, Kinnerton Place, Knightsbridge, S.W.1. Sloane 9428. Had his first music lesson when he was five years old from his father who was a celebrated concert violinist and leader of the Berlin Philharmonic." Played only classical music until he formed his "Mayfair Music" in 1943. In 1946 married Zena Marshall, only daughter of Mrs. Tailly, of "Skeffington Hall," Leicestershire. At present playing at the "Mirabelle Restaurant," Mayfair, where he has been for the past three years. Recreations: Riding, motoring and swimming.

ADCOCK, VERNON.
Band Leader. b. Birmingham, 1908. Well-known as a Xylophonist and Vibraphone player. Address: 87, Edmund Street, Birmingham 3. Phone: Central 5324. First broadcast in 1929 with his Vernon Adcock

Xylophone. Studied music at the Birmingham and Midland Institute and later joined the City of Birmingham Orchestra. Before forming his own orchestra he played in cinema and theatre orchestras. Has broadcast more than 200 times with his Xylophone and Vibraphone. His orchestra has been heard regularly in the "Music While You Work" and "Late Night Music" programmes. Married Winifred Shaw the well-known Midland violinist.

Afford, Max.

Script-writer. b. Adelaide, South Australia, 1908. Has written many long-running serials as well as 30 original radio (one hour) plays and about 50 adaptations of stage plays for radio. Address: 243, Raglan Street, Balmoral, Sydney, Australia. Was a newspaper reporter, then won Australian Broadcasting Commission radio-play contest with "Merry-go-Round" in 1936. Became staff dramatist to A.B.C. for five years. Resigned to become chief playwright in commercial radio and scripted the highly successful "First Light Fraser" and also "Danger Unlimited" which has run for two years and is still running. Is at present at work on the film scenario of "Smithy" which the Columbia Film Corporation are making at Cinesound studios, Sydney. Has published five novels. Claims to be the only Australian resident in Australia to have a play on Broadway — this is "Lady in Danger" presented by Lee Schubert at the Broadhurst Theatre, New York, in March, 1945. His other plays, of which he has written several, include "Sleep No More" and "The Founder."

Afrique.

Impersonator. His real name is Alexander Witkin. b. Johannesburg, South Africa, 2nd February, 1907. Address: The Summer House, 52, Longdean Avenue, Hove. Phone: (Brighton) Preston 6213. Won a "discovery" competition at a Johannesburg music hall. Came to England, December, 1930. Obtained a chorus contract with the Old Vic Opera Company after several unsuccessful auditions. Toured the music halls, doing an impression of the Duke of Windsor, then Edward VIII, which caused a minor sensation and resulted in his being booked for a season at the Ritz Carlton, New York.

Agate, James.

Agg, Howard.

Writer and Producer. b. Bramhall, Cheshire. First broadcast with the Empire Service building programmes for the Pacific and African Services. Address: c/o District Bank, 47 Old Bond Street, W.1. Mayfair 8040. (Temporary.) Previous to joining the B.B.C. was a journalist; for three years Music Critic in Manchester; author of many plays for amateurs, produced all over the country; and a modern version of "The School for Scandal" produced in London in 1937. Part author and producer with Mabel Constanduros of the novels "On the Run" and "This Respected Lady." Hobbies include lying in the sun and playing the piano—turned the latter to good account by broadcasting several times from the original B.B.C. Studios in The Parsonage, Manchester. Ambition: to go round the world.
Howard Agg

Alan, Hervey.

Baritone. b. Whitstable, Kent, 22nd February, 1910. First broadcast in 1935. Specialises in all classes of singing. Address: 22, Grove Wood Hill, Coulsdon, Surrey. Phone: Uplands 5775. Hervey Alan had several years experience in choral singing before embarking on his solo career, and has, therefore, a great liking for oratorio. Well known in London and the Provinces for his work in the name part of Mendelssohn's "Elijah." He is an exponent of the old Italian "Bel Canto" method of singing, and in recent years, with pianist Ivey Dickson, has done nearly 200 lecture recitals in schools and music clubs on the subject of music through the centuries. Recent programmes include "Grand Hotel," "Tuesday Serenade," "Those Were the Days," and "Concert Hour" recital.

Alington, Adrian.

le, Oxford. Alington served 1914-1918 war in Wiltshire Regiment, and was wounded in 1918. He was cipher officer, Supreme War Council, at Versailles, during treaty-making. Best known for his plays and feature programmes, his first connection with radio was in 1943 with the play “The Man in the Chair.” His recent programmes include “From Tom Brown to Young Woodley” (programme about school stories) and “Willow the King.” Author of 14 novels, a boy’s book, film and radio scripts. Married Lucy Wilson in 1928, and has two step-children.

ALLAN, ELKAN.
Freelance broadcaster, script writer and introducer. b. London, 8th December, 1922. Address: 10, Coleherne Mansions, S.W.5. Temple Bar 4818. (Office.) Educated at a preparatory and secondary school where, he says, the only subject in which he was not bottom of the form was English, and so regarded some sort of writing career as essential. Began as office boy in a news agency, became advertisement copy-writer, assistant editor of “The Outfitter,” reporter “Daily Express,” columnist “Reynolds News,” and editor of “New Theatre.” First connection with radio was when he was asked to advise on youth programmes. He then says he convinced John Watt of the desirability of a separate quiz show and set questions for “Quiz Time” in the Spring, 1945. “Quiz Time,” 1945-46, followed at peak time. With Mary Ingram wrote gramophone record series “Listen to the Lyrics, How They’ve Changed” and “Out of Character” introducing the programmes, which are-among his recent programmes. Writer for magazines, and has travelled widely in Europe. Hobbies: Theatre-going, haunting book shops, chess and rushing about in a three-wheeler. Clubs: Press.

ALLEN, ERIC.
Script-writer and short story broadcaster. b. London, 25th February, 1909. First connected with broadcasting when he wrote material for variety artistes in about 1935. Address: c/o Author’s Advisory Service, King’s Mews, Gray’s Inn Road, London, W.C.1. Has been writing on and off for twenty years, concentrating on short stories since 1939. These have been published in most of the newspapers and magazines and in collections as books. A collection of broadcast stories was published by Rich and Cowan. Was prizewinner in Big Ben Books’ competition with short novel “Prayer is Better than Sleep.” Between 20 and 30 of his stories have been broadcast.

ALLEN, NAT.
Dance band leader. b. High Wycombe, Bucks, 7th April, 1909. Did the war time series “Calling Malta” and was playing at the Cafe de Paris when it was bombed. Address: 18, Rundell Crescent, Hendon, N.W.4. Phone: Hendon 2928. First winning a talent contest in 1927, played with many leading bands on the guitar and piano until he formed his own quintet in 1941 to go to the Cafe de Paris which was heavily bombed six weeks later. During the war was a special constable in London. Was appointed musical director of the noted “Calling Malta” and other programmes on the air. In 1945 toured the leading variety theatres with a large stage band, and in 1946 succeeded Ambrose at Ciro’s Club, London. Plays several instruments. Hobbies: Walking and cycling.

ALLENBY, FRANK.
and Francis Worsley. Long runs include "Sweet Aloes," "Doctor's Dilemma," "Old Folks at Home," "The Letter" and the "Bird in Hand." Favourite part is Peter Sherringham in "The Tragic Muse." Recent radio programmes include the part of A. J. Raffles in a series of "Raffles" broadcasts.

ALLIN, NORMAN.
Singer. b. Ashton-under-Lyne, Lancs., 19th November, 1885. Specialises in opera and ballad singing. Address: 28, Hewardale Avenue, Wandsworth Common. He has been principal bass at Covent Garden, English and international opera seasons since 1918. His roles include Boris, Sarastro, Osmin, Hagen, Hunding, Mephistopheles, Baron Ochs, King Mark. Principal bass at all great British musical festivals, choral societies and orchestral societies. Principal bass at Melbourne Centenary Opera Season, 1934-35. Professor of Singing, London Royal Academy of Music. Hon. R.A.M., F.R.M.C.M. He has been connected with radio since Savoy Hill days.

ALSOP, ADA.
Soprano. b. Darlington, 19th March, 1915. First featured in radio as solo soprano singer with the Northumbrian Singers in 1936. Address: "Newtonville," Ravensdale Road, Darlington. Phone: Darlington 2204. Commenced her early training in Newcastle where she made a name as a recitalist and oratorio singer. As Solo Soprano of the newly formed B.B.C. Northumbrian Singers she broadcast sixty times between 1936-9. Stanford Robinson took an interest in her voice and this led to broadcasts in "Tuesday Serenade"; since then she has had regular dates on the air in many of the leading musical features. Appeared in the 1945 Sir Henry Wood Promenade concerts and records exclusively for Decca. Sandy McPherson's Sunday programme, "Armchair Melodies," is possibly one of her best known broadcasts. In 1940 married Harry Hayman. Her hobbies are hat designing and farming. She designs and executes all her own millinery and did voluntary land work during the War.

ALSTON, REX.
AMSTELL, BILLY.

Bandsman. b. London, 20th August, 1911. First broadcast in 1928. Specialises in jazz. Address: 93a, Brondesbury Road, N.W.6. Maida Vale 4085. Learned the piano as a child, but turned to the saxophone because his brother played one. Joined D'Arcy's Babies' Band at the age of 14. Then became a member of Jack Harris' band at Grosvenor House, Roy Fox's first band, and with Ambrose for nine years. Nearly four years with the R.A.F. and on discharge went to Geraldo for two, then to Ambrose at Ciro's where he still is. In the R.A.F. he used to go out to dispersal points on a lorry to play for pilots about to take off—they all wanted "In the Mood." This used to get on his nerves, he says, since he was required to play it day after day and twenty times a day—but is glad to say that he never refused to play the number. Travelled on the Continent with Geraldo, and while they waved to the citizens they received no response, because, wearing civvies, they were taken for collaborationists being driven to a concentration camp in a lorry.

AMYOT, ETIENNE.

ANDERSON, FRANK CORDUE KENNEDY.

ANDERSON, MARJORIE

Poetry reader and broadcaster in school plays. b. in London. During the war did "Thank You for Your Letters" and "Forces Favourites." Address: c/o B.B.C. Educated Felixstowe College, Suffolk. After leaving school studied Spanish and took a full secretarial course. Followed this with a three years course with Elsie Fogerty at the Central School of Speech Training and Dramatic Art, and later gained the University of London Diploma. While still a student broadcast in plays and poetry readings. After leaving the School of Speech Training gave lessons in voice production and Dramatic Art at Italia Conti's Stage School, appearing at the same time in
T. S. Eliot’s “Murder in the Cathedral” at the Mercury Theatre. Later went on tour in the play and to the United States in 1938. In 1940 joined the B.B.C. staff as one of the first two woman announcers in the Overseas Service. Worked for two years in the Pacific Service which meant rising at dawn to broadcast to Australia and New Zealand. Was transferred to the General Forces Programme as Continuity Announcer, compiling and presenting “Forces Favourites,” and answering letters from service men and women by post and on the air in a weekly talk “Thank You for Your Letters.” In 1945 made a short film of this feature for Pathe Pictorial. In December, 1945, played the part of Frances Courteney in the radio play “The Peaceful Inn” and gave many poetry readings. Appointed to Third Programme, 1946.

ANDREWS, BARBARA.

Pianist and Singer. “Better half” of the Ted and Barbara Andrews team. b. Walton-on-Thames, Surrey. Started in broadcasting about eight years ago and has recently featured with Ted in all the big Variety programmes such as Music Hall, Variety Band Box, Monday Night at Eight, Navy Mixture, Workers’ Playtime, Shipmates Ashore, etc. Well known for their amusing intimate conversations between numbers. Their theme song is — “I Bring A Love Song.” Is a very fine pianist, A.R.C.M. performer. (See also entry under Ted Andrews.) Her hobbies are her home and her children. Her ambition to have a small farm complete with horses, chicks, etc.

ANDREWS, GILLIAN MAGUIRE.

Children’s Hour Actor. b. London, 15th July, 1930. 64, Hanger Lane, Ealing, W.5. Educated, S. Hilary’s, Alder’ly Edge, and now at St. Anne’s Convent, Ealing. Appeared in the original Carol broadcast Christmas, 1941, then as young artist (dramatic) B.B.C. at War Exhibition. Recent programmes include “Man Who Saw the Apple Fall,” “Prince and Pauper,” and best known as Susan in broadcasts of “The Brydon Family.” Travelled in France, Italy, Jugo-Slavia, and Greece. Is going to the R.A.D.A. after matriculating. Has been awarded medals for singing and elocution, passed all pianoforte examinations (R.S.M.) with distinction, had two original musical compositions broadcast, one poem, and two short stories accepted. Is now engaged on a novel. Ambitions: To be actor, playwright and producer. Father is an architect and mother a dramatic coach and elocutionist.

ANDREWS, TED.

Well-known tenor of Ted and Barbara Andrews team. b. Toronto, Canada, 1st April, 1907. First connected with radio in Canada twenty years ago. Address: 15, Cromwell Road, Beckenham, Kent. Phone: Beckenham 3511. Was born in Canada and first sang at the age of seven in the choir of S. James Church, Toronto. His first big public appearance was at the Albert Hall, Toronto, as alto soloist when he was ten. Then followed a period of study which included the Spanish guitar, banjo and other musical instruments. He became chief arranger to the large Canadian radio orchestras.
Trying his luck in England, he says, he found it when he met Barbara (who is a very fine pianiste in her own right, A.R.C.M. performer), teamed up with her and eventually married her. Now they have three children—two boys and a girl—Julie, aged eight, is already showing signs of becoming a brilliant coloratura soprano. (See also Barbara Andrews.) Golf is his main hobby. He is already playing from scratch and his big ambition is to win the British Amateur Golf Championship.

ANDREWS, VICTOR.

Scriptwriter, producer, player. b. Staffordshire, 13th June, 1897. Specialises in radio drama. Address: The Turf Club, Cairo, Egypt. He states that he began talking early in life and writing a little later. By profession a talker as lecturer at the Royal Military College, Cairo, but is also a writer of anything for the radio. First play was accepted by the B.B.C. Main interest is radio drama, but has also written short stories, talks and feature programmes. Graduate in Philosophy and Psychology which, he says, gives him a leaning toward the eerie or the "unusual" and plays "with a message." Since 1940 he has been a freelance scriptwriter, producer and player for Egyptian State Broadcasting. Holds the opinion that first class radio drama scripts are extremely rare, and that too little experiment has been made with new technique in radio drama.

ANDREWS, WILLIAM LINTON.

ANSTEY, EDGAR HAROLD.

ANTONY, JONQUIL.

ARA, ANGEL.

Producer and Scriptwriter. b. Huesca, Aragon, Spain, 22nd July, 1911. Produced dramatic productions for Latin America during the war. Address: 19, Oakhill Avenue, Hampstead, N.W.3. Phone: Hampstead 3905. First connected with British radio in 1938 on the opening of the Latin America Service. Educated at the Universities of Salamanca and Madrid. Doctor of Law. Also studied at the University of Nottingham. Directed a film with Harold Purcell for Latin America, the first to be shot in England with a South American cast drawn mainly from the B.B.C. staff. Hobby: Washing-up! Sports: Football (played as goalkeeper) and twice played in the Spanish football cup competition.

ARCHDALE, ALEXANDER.
Actor. b. Jhansi, India, 26th November, 1905. Usually appears as a light character actor. Address: c/o Spotlight. Left his studies in chemical engineering at McGill University, Montreal, when he was seized with desire to go on the stage. In England he went on tour with Henry Ainley in 1927, and then toured the Continent and South Africa where he went on the air for the first time singing and playing the ukelele. Played his first real West End part in 1932 in "Behold We Live," at the St. James's, with Sir Gerald du Maurier and Gertrude Lawrence, and appeared often in the West End until the beginning of the war. Started broadcasting on the Empire programmes, then joined the Navy, and returned to go on tour with Evelyn Laye and Frank Lawton in "Elusive Lady," prior to its London production. One of the early performers at the Player's Club as a singer, he taught acting at the Westminster Masque Theatre School, produced several plays, and hopes to produce more. Has played golf and cricket for the Stage Societies. Club: Savage.

ARDEN, ERIC HUBERT.
Dance Band Producer. b. Hawick, Scotland, 1905. Did the first dance band broadcast from 2LS (Leeds). Address: 180, Adelaide Road, Swiss Cottage, London, N.W.3. Worked in insurance office for two years while he played the piano in his own semi-pro dance band. Went to India in the tea business, contracted fever and returned to England in 1930. Became a professional pianist, his first engagement being at the Grand Hotel, Llandudno. Had his own string quintet in 1935 and went to the Royal Exeter Hotel, Bournemouth, as resident orchestra and did regular broadcasts until the outbreak of war. Became a major in West Yorkshire Regiment, captured in Greece, and spent four years as P.O.W. Lost his right arm ten days before V.E. day in

ARDEN, NEAL.

Actor and Compere. b. London, 27th December, 1909. Best known for presentation of the Anne Shelton Half Hour and Quiet Rhythm. Toured music halls with his father as a child. Educated, Royal Masonic School, Bushey. Became an optical student, then a trooper in the Rhodesian Mounted Police, and returned—this time to the legitimate stage. First became known as film commentator for M.G.M., Columbia, and Warner Bros. Joined the Queens’ Westminsters at the outbreak of war. Featured in “Blossom Time,” “Nights of the Garter” and the “Lilac Domino.” Presented the Anne Shelton Half Hour in 1944, Music Makers, 1945, and Quiet Rhythm, 1946. The fan mail for the last programme is over 100 a week. Married to Dorothy Brown, two children.

ARKELL, REGINALD.

Writer. b. Lechlade, Gloucestershire. Best known for “1066 and All That,” “Green Fingers,” etc., and personal appearance for the Talks Dept. Address: Marston Mersey, Cricklade, Wilts.: Paramount Court, London, W.C.1. Temple Bar 4363. A regular contributor to television, the Home and West Regional programmes, his musical “The Last Waltz” (Gaiety) was the first play to be broadcast from the stage during the actual production. Adapted “1066 and All That” for the stage. Has written libretto or lyrics for “Jumble Sale,” “Now and Then,” “Catherine,” “Our Nell,” “Blue Train,” “Laughing Cavalier,” and many others. Author of “Columbine,” “Tragedy of Mr. Punch,” “Meet These People,” “Winter Sportings,” “Bridge Without Sighs,” “Playing the Games,” “Green Fingers,” “Richard Jefferies,” and “Cottage in the Country.” Recent programmes include television and “Country Magazine,” Club: Savage.

ARLOTT, JOHN.

ARNAUD, YVONNE.

Actress. b. Bordeaux, France. Famous on stage and radio, and first broadcast twenty years ago. Address: Banks Way Farm, Effingham Common, Surrey. Bookham 350. Apart from music, she has appeared in classical plays, straight plays and musical comedy. She says: “All successful up till now, which is gratifying!”

ARNELL, ALMA.
Announcer and writer. b. Tottenham, 17th October, 1922. Best known for programmes on Swing. Address: 18, Arnold Road, Tottenham, N.15. Phone: Tottenham 5936. Started writing and announcing for commercial radio when she left school at 17. When the stations closed down she tried working in an office, and subsequently went into a war factory. Began writing for the B.B.C., she says, to relieve the monotony. A chance visit to a Rhythm Club made her interested in jazz, and become so absorbed in swing and jazz that she decided to add the subject to her other writing which she now does regularly for the B.B.C. and hopes to do for commercial radio. Has given many recitals at Rhythm Clubs, and got her greatest kick out of the ones she did with Sergeant Dick Dudley of the American Forces Network and N.B.C. She would like to conduct broadcasts in the same informal manner as she saw when studying the technique of the American gramophone programmes in the A.F.N. studios in London.

ARRAU, CLAUDIO.
Concert Pianist. b. Chillan, Chile, 6th February, 1903. Has played all over the United States and Canada. Address: c/o National Concerts and Artists Corporation, 711, Fifth Avenue, New York City. When a small boy of five, amazed the music world by playing the Beethoven Sonata though he had never had any formal lessons. His talents impressed the Chilean Government who undertook to finance his musical education and sent him to Europe to study under Martin Krause, a pupil of Liszt. While a student he won the Liszt and Ibach prizes, as well as the first place in the 1925 International Congress of Pianists in Switzerland. Has been appointed a member of the Chilean diplomatic corps, charged with promoting international cultural relations. Has broadcast several seasons in succession, mainly with the New York Symphony Orchestra, with whom he will be broadcasting again this winter.

ASH, GERALD STANLEY.
Playwright and Talks Dept. b. Stalybridge, Cheshire, 7th August, 1919. Best known for “Talks to Housewives.” Address: “Yew Trees,” Beachenlea Lane, Swanley, Kent. Educated at Brentwood, he represented his school in Public School Cross-Country races, and went to sea as a midshipman. Went round the world, visited Japan, and on one occasion lived in the hills of Japan in native dress for several days for a bet. Contracted infantile paralysis in French Indo-China in 1939, took up hospital administration and is now qualifying as a chartered company secretary. First broadcast a talk in 1944—“Disability Conquered,” and recent programmes include a play “Samuel Cunard,” “Husband’s Help,” “Holiday Travel,” and “Housewives Scrapbook.” Is now writing his first thriller, which is to be published in the Spring.
ASKEY, ARTHUR.

Comedian.  b. Liverpool, 6th June, 1900. First broadcast in 1930, best known for Band Waggon. Born of non-theatrical parents, he was educated at the Liverpool Institute and sang in the Liverpool Cathedral Choir. Was taken round to local concerts for the wounded of the 1914-18 war and sang “Oh For the Wings of a Dove” and “Roses of Picardy.”

![Arthur Askey]

Entered the Liverpool Education Offices (Tonsils and Adenoids Dept!) and stayed there until he became Private A.A. He learned the theatre business the hard way with concert parties, pantomimes and masonic, etc. Then came broadcasting, television and cabaret and in 1938 Band Wagon, which really did the trick. From that time it has been films, music halls, revues, musical comedies and offers from abroad—as yet unconsidered. Married to the girl with whom he travelled to and from the office in Liverpool before he entered the theatrical profession. Wife has very little interest in anything theatrical (except himself). Has one little daughter who inherits her father’s humour but is determined to be a veterinary surgeon. His hobbies: Golf, motoring, and good music.

ASPDEN, WILLIAM.

Compere and Children’s Hour.  b. Bolton, Lancs., 22nd May, 1890. Nature talks and countryside features are favourite programmes. Address: Pen-y-Bone, Llanfairpwll, Anglesey. Interested in painting at an early age, but after finishing schooling went into professional portrait photography. Later took up commercial and Press photography and theatrical publicity work. Took as much time off as possible in outdoor pursuits and bird watching. Finally settled in North Wales to make possible concentrated nature study. Became a professional landscape and animal painter and journalist. Lectured to schools, colleges and scientific societies. Entered Civil Service in 1939. First broadcasting in 1934, recent programmes include “Countryman’s Log,” “Around the Country” (Children’s Hour), and compéring Welsh “Country Magazine.” Married Mandi, eldest daughter of D. P. Phone: Chathill 33. Educated Charterhouse and Balliol College, Oxford. In 1903 obtained post as Sub-warden of Toynbee Hall at £200 a year, and he says, no prospects. Then became Leader-writer on the "Morning Post" 1905-08; Civil Servant, 1908-19, when he was given first job by Winston Churchill at the Board of Trade; Director of London School of Economics and Political Science, University of London, 1919-37 (obtained from the Rockefeller Foundation $2,000,00 to buy the Bloomsbury site for the University, and the 'Beveridge Hall' in the University building—occupied by journalists of all nations during World War II—commemorates this); started Academic Assistance Council in 1933 to rescue academics from Hitler's persecution; Master of University College, Oxford, 1937-45; Chairman of Unemployment Insurance Statutory Committee, 1935-44; gave up these two posts to become M.P. for Berwick-upon-Tweed, October, 1944, to June, 1945, and being defeated in the General Election says he is now without a profession except that of author. Has written many books on his own account and in the first war invented a submarine game called "Swish," which he says was on the market for one winter and earned him £7 in Royalties! Has made alone or with others many Government Reports including one on the Coal Mining Industry which was a best seller in 1926; on Food Rationing, 1936 (led to food being planned in advance of war); on use of skilled men in the Services (led to establishment of R.E.M.E.); on Fuel Rationing (led to nothing!) and on Social Insurance in 1942—this again was a best seller in U.K. and U.S.A. Parents are Scottish and Yorkshire, they met in India, and Lord Beveridge is at present engaged in writing a book about them in bygone Bengal. Musical instruments: says he is forbidden by wife (married 1942). Says the highlight of his career was the making, without professional assistance, of a swimming pool which actually holds water!

BEVERLEY SISTERS.

Variety harmony trio. All born in London and on the 5th of May but not the same year! Have broadcast in "Variety Band Box," "Here's Wishing You Well Again" and in many television programmes. Address: c/o 23, Denmark Street, London, W.1. Are three "real" sisters, Teddie and Babs are twins and Joy is exactly three years their senior—the twins are nineteen years old. Come from a theatrical family and are related to the Lupinos. All were private secretaries on war work when spotted by Jock Ware—the Fox photographer. Singing in harmony was just a hobby with them but he was so impressed with it that he encouraged them to have a B.B.C. audition. A few weeks later they made their debut on the A.E.F. Programme. They spend what leisure they have working out new arrangements and answering fan letters. Recently completed a Music Hall tour with Eric Winstone and his orchestra and have now embarked on a separate act. Probably have made more television appearances than any other variety act. Their signature tune is "Three Little Sisters."

Began writing and acting plays at school. At the beginning of the war went to live in Brecon, South Wales, where the book of "The Swish of the Curtain" was written. With the proceeds of the book went to the R.A.D.A., and on leaving appeared (for one minute each performance, she says) in "The Man Who Came to Dinner." Touristed in E.N.S.A., did a lot of rep. work. Wants to write another radio play. Recent programmes were "Mr. Hithwaite Returns," "Maddy Alone," and "To be a Ballerina." Changed her name from Pamela Brown to avoid confusion.

BROWN, PHILIP WESTON.
Variety Producer, Compere, Actor, and Composer. b. King's Heath, Birmingham, 9th March, 1895. Dance band assistant to the Variety dept., 1936-39. Address: 17, Wigmore Street, W.1. Phone: Langham 4258. Produced concert party and plays with other amateur performers in Birmingham. Served in France and Germany in first World War, retired with the rank of captain, and began the post-war period as piano salesman. Finally went into business on his own account. Organised and employed dance bands in connection with musical instrument business and formed Philip Brown's Dominoes Band, which began broadcasting in 1928, consistently heard from Midland Regional for several years. Bands becoming more attractive than business, he disposed of the business and devoted himself to bands. Had five in constant work and conducted a twelve-piece band himself for individual engagements. In April, 1936, was offered appointment as Dance Band Assistant to the Variety Department in London, which included programme building and auditioning of bands for broadcasting. During the war was posted to Evesham, Weston and Bristol. Left the B.B.C. in 1944. Joined Jack Payne's production "Can I Do Yer Now, Sir?" written by Ted Kavanagh and featuring most of the "Itma" artists. In this he played a leading part, that of a B.B.C. producer, and managed the show during the tour. In 1945 became registered as Agent and Theatrical employer.

BROWNE, E. MARTIN.
Actor, Poetry Reader, etc. b. Zeals, Wilt., 29th January, 1900. Was for six years Director of Religious Drama. Address: 56, Portland Court, Great Portland Street, W.1. Phone: Museum 0149. Educated at Eton and Christ Church, Oxford. Guard's Cadet Battalion, 1918-19. Married Henzie Raeburn, the actress, in 1924. Have two sons. Produced all T. S. Eliot's plays 1934-39, also many other plays including the summer festivals at Canterbury, Tewkesbury, etc. Director and founder of the Pilgrim Players. Recent programmes include "The House by the Stable" (play), "Book of Verse" and "Arts Chronicle" (talk).

BROWNE, LAIDMAN.
Radio Actor. b. Newcastle-on-Tyne, 13th September, 1896. One of the best-known members of the B.B.C. Repertory Company. Address: 18, Queens Crescent, Richmond, Surrey. Phone: Richmond 4724. Served in 1914-18 war, first in the original Tank Corps, then as a pilot in the R.A.F. Was one of the founders of the Newcastle Repertory Company. First played in London in 1929. Starred at the Strand Theatre in "1066 and All That" and in many other West End plays. Has made several films. Joined the B.B.C. Rep. Company at the outbreak of war and is now leading the Company. Has adapted and written stories for the radio, the latest being "The Cask of Amontillado," by Edgar A. Poe. His hobby is writing, and his ambition to write a good play with a good part for himself. Used to sing professionally but his last appearance in this role was when in a feature programme he sung "Annie Laurie," as a drunken Scots Hussar who had had his jaw shot off in the charge of the Light Brigade! Speaks all unintelligible dialects fluently, specialising naturally in "Geordie." Always makes up when playing heavy character parts for the radio. Invented the "Marseilles Dock Chatter"—a cacophony of harsh native voices which can be and has been used to represent dock chatter at Rangoon, Yokohama, Adelaide, and South Shields. In his early days found it a handicap to speak "too good English" and so studied carefully the slovenly speech of the educated southerner, at times adopting the fashionable "orf," "crawss," "lorst," etc., and then began to make progress in the radio world. Is a first class exponent of the famous Mummerset dialect—a skeleton dialect which, with the addition of certain operatic vowel sounds, will establish with certainty the locale of any play between, he says, Cornwall and Devon. Believes radio to be the perfect lie-detector. Favourite part: Always the one he is rehearsing.

BRUCE, EDGAR K.

BRUCE, GEORGE.

Scriptwriter. b. Fraserburgh, Aberdeenshire, 10th March, 1909. Known for school feature programmes. Address: Benachie, Newton Park, Wormit, Dundee. Experiences in his home town provided the material for his feature "Buchan Fisherman," and on which his verse is based. Educated Aberdeen University, graduated M.A. with First Class Honours in English Literature. Won silver medal for verse speaking at Aberdeen Music Festival. Is assistant headmaster of the English Department, High School of Dundee. Chief interest is the writing of poetry, the practice of which brought him to radio, believing that he could make verse near enough to prose not to be observed as "poetical."
yet striking and effective. His first schools script was mainly in verse. Recent programmes—“Scottish Heritage,” “William Wallace,” etc. Publications: “Sea Talk,” “The Legend of Finella.”

BRUNSKILL, MURIEL.

CAMBER, LEN.

Dance-band vocalist. b. Glasgow, 31st August, 1917. Well-known as singer with the Geraldo band 1940-45. Address: 310, White House, Albany Street, N.W.1. Phone: Eus. 1200. Studied to be a doctor for three years after leaving school but had to quit owing to ill health. Then went into business until he joined Geraldo in October, 1940. While at Glasgow University formed a vocal trio which gained a local name and broadcast many times from Glasgow. From October, 1940, sang as featured vocalist with Geraldo and up till 1945 did more than 2,500 broadcasts. During the war did many trips overseas, playing the whole Mediterranean area, Paiforce and the European continent. Since October, 1945, has been topping the bills at Music Halls all over the country with his own solo act. Records now solely with Columbia. The only thing, he says, which will salvage radio in this country is for it to be commercialised. Unknown actors, script-writers, singers and others who now find the B.B.C. a closed shop would then have a chance to prove their worth. Hobbies: Ice-skating, golf, swimming, and answering fan-mail which pours in at the rate of 200 a week. His big ambition is to appear in films. The big highlight in his career was when he had a long talk with the Queen about their native country after a Command performance.

CAMERON, AUDREY.

Variety Producer and Actress. b. London, 8th February, 1905. Specialises in playing crying baby, small boy and dialect parts and in producing radio "Who-dun-its." Address: Wood End, Beechwood Avenue, Weybridge, Surrey. Phone: Walton-on-Thames 2420. Made first appearance on stage at age of 6 months. Educated at various English schools and at Pensionnat St. Joseph, Compiègne, France. Related to the late J. T. Carrodus, famous English violinist of Victorian days. Educated in Belgium; studied at the Royal Manchester College of Music, and with Madame Clara Novello Davies in London. A strained jaw prevented her singing for a time, giving her an opportunity for studying characterisation which led to a deep interest in racial characteristics, first of Britain and then European peoples. Travelled extensively collecting impressions, peasant songs, costumes and "voices." Discovered her "male" voice while joking, and broadcasting it now brings enquiries as to the identity of her male partner. The "voice" is also useful, she says, when alone in the house as a precaution against intruders. Has given recitals in Paris, and has introduced our folk songs abroad. Hobbies: Walking and travel.

CARR, CAROLE.

CARROLL, THERESE.

Impressioniste, etc. b. Frankfort-on-Main, 21st July, 1908. Well-known for her vocal impressions of everyday people. Address: 48, Wood Lane, London, N.6. Phone: Mountview 6694. Started training for the stage at eighteen in Berlin, Paris and later in London at the Webber Douglas School. Became a member of Berlin's most famous cabaret which was banned by Goebbels because of its anti-Nazi propaganda. At the age of 23, toured all over the continent with her own cabaret. Worked in Paris at their sophisticated night-clubs until 1935 when she came to London and studied the language. Took various jobs as waitress, nurse and even charwoman in order to learn Cockney and everyday English. In 1938 played at the Prince of Wales Theatre. During the war entertained for American Red Cross and C.E.M.A. touring the camps, hostels, factories and hospitals. Discovered by the young B.B.C. Producer, David Porter, and broadcast on the air in cabaret programmes and in "The Gilded Cage." Later, in 1946, engaged by Tom Ronald to play in the Michael Howard series "For the Love of Mike." Is giving a series of impressions of "Everyday Life" on television. Her ambition is to play serious parts and her dread that she will become "typed" as a sort of foreign Mrs. Mopp. One of the few foreigners to successfully portray Cockney characters on the English stage and radio. At present touring in her own sketches for the Arts Council of Great Britain in addition to her radio work.

Her favourite parts are Elizabeth Bennett in "Pride and Prejudice" and Phoebe in "Quality Street." Her hobbies: Siamese cats and cooking. Her big ambition is to play in Shakespeare and to meet Bernard Shaw.

FELTON, FELIX.

Drama producer. b. 1912. General Assistant to Val Gielgud, and one of his senior drama producers. Address: c/o B.B.C. Educated Clifton College and Balliol College, Oxford. Was early interested in drama and music, and seriously thought of taking up music professionally as pianist and composer. Instead he "found that he had got a scholarship" to Balliol. Was President of the O.U.D.S., played "Bottom" in Max Reinhardt's production of the "Midsummer Night's Dream," and Dr. Faustus in Marlowe's play. Val Gielgud saw the latter production and asked the O.U.D.S. to broadcast it. On coming down from Oxford he joined the B.B.C. and wrote and produced his first programme on 31st January, 1934. Early productions included "Opium Eater" and "Cavalcade." In 1938 left the Drama Department to become West Regional Programme Director, and in 1941 took up war-time job of Assistant Director of Staff Training. Rejoined his old department in 1945, and since then has done a large number of productions of all kinds, including "From the London Theatre" series and, with Val Gielgud, the Sunday serial "The Man of Property." Also produced Galsworthy's "Loyalties" and "The Forest," and "He Was Born Gay," by Emlyn Williams, for "Saturday Night Theatre." Plays the piano and has written both serious and dance music. While at Oxford he had two suites of his own composition played by the London Philharmonic Orchestra. Is writing a book on radio drama.

GARSCADDEN, KATHLEEN.

Scottish Children’s Hour Organiser. b. Glasgow. Address: c/o B.B.C., Glasgow. Daughter of an Irish father and a Scottish mother, which probably accounts for her love of Irish folk music and any Irish dialect. She showed signs of being musical at the age of six, took up singing later, and studied under the late Sir Henry Wood. Intended to take up singing as a career, but when in London as a student she went to a fortune teller "just for fun," who said, "You will not be a professional singer, but I have never seen anyone surrounded by so many children as you are" (this was before the days of broadcasting). "You will not teach either," said the fortune teller, "because your class is the whole world." At the time, she says, it seemed fantastic, but this is quite true, because since she started putting out Children's Hour programmes from Scotland, she has had correspondence from all over the world. Is interested in collecting folk music of all countries, but as a singer enjoyed singing French tunes better than any other.

Joined the staff of the B.B.C. as a Home Service announcer in 1940. In 1941 introduced "Workers' Playtime," left the B.B.C. at the end of the war, and starred in No. 1 tour of British music halls in 1945. Acted in radio plays in 1946, and as quiz-master in "Merry-Go-Round." During the war was presented to Queen Mary, who attended a broadcast of "Workers' Playtime" at a factory near Bristol, and also during the war produced and introduced a variety programme for Australian Forces in the Middle East broadcast from London called "Australian Magazine." His chief ambition is to return to the theatre and to appear in films, and he would also like to own a farm. Once had hopes of being a champion swimmer, but a strained heart killed that ambition. Chief hobby: Riding.

Bandleader. b. London, 1904. One of the leading figures in the dance-band world. Address: 73, New Bond Street, W.1. Phone: Mayfair 1987. After learning the piano at an early age, at home, went to the Royal Academy of Music. Then entered on a business career, but he preferred music, and soon obtained his first employment as relief pianist at a cinema in the Old Kent Road. Next he turned his attention to the organ and played at a well-known restaurant in the Strand. He then toured the world for further experience in the presentation of popular music. Returning to England he soon formed his first orchestra, which played at the Hotel Majestic, St. Anne’s; they stayed there for five years, and broadcast three times a week. After this another holiday to South America, where he acquired a taste for the tango. Returning to England—this time London—he formed his famous Tango Band, which became the resident tango orchestra at the Savoy. In 1936 he started his “Romance in Rhythm” programmes on the air, using an all-star thirty-piece orchestra, with many star vocalists. This was followed by “Dancing Through,” a non-stop pageant of popular music, and more recently his E.N.S.A. half-hour, which was extremely popular in barracks and camps. Ambition: To conduct his own Symphony Orchestra.

SYDNEY JEROME

Cyril E. M. Joad story as follows: “Birth, mother, nurse, kindergarten, preparatory school, Oxford, the Civil Service, retirement from same. University of London, teaching philosophy, writing books on all sorts of subjects, playing games, climbing mountains, riding (horses), as much outdoor life as possible, and more exercise than is either usual with or good for intellectuals. Middle age, growing addictions to pleasures of the table, old age, senility, death. A certain amount of love-making throughout (except in the earliest and latest phases). Found that embarrassing and tedious! But not being in politics or on the stage, and not being dependent on pleasing the public for my livelihood, I don’t, thank goodness, have to humour it.”

JOHNS, WILFRED.

House, Regent Street, London, W.1. Phone: Regent 7320. Son of a Canadian police detective, he left school at the age of fifteen and became assistant manager of a cinema, and within a few months became the manager. Finding life dull he threw up his job and set off for the Yukon, and for the next nine months worked as a deckhand, commercial artist, and lumberjack. He saved his money and went to Vancouver where he got a job as comedian in burlesque, but soon he set out for further adventure and became in turn a theatrical manager, quartermaster on a ship, circus assistant, publicity agent to a famous hypnotist, journalist, advertisement writer, all-in wrestler and finally a radio announcer. As a young announcer on Canadian radio he produced many programmes written by himself. He started his talent spotting by chance in Alberta, introducing an accordion player one evening to fill an unexpected gap in a programme. Next day he was besieged with requests for auditions, which led to a regular programme for "unknowns." He came to England in 1935, where he started touring music halls. Later signed up by the B.B.C. and his famous Radio Discoveries became known not only in the British Isles, but also on the other side of the world. Married Mina Sumner. tests and drama festivals. In leisure time produces for the Park Repertory Theatre, Glasgow.

LOCKWOOD, PRESTON.

Actor. b. Leyton, Essex, 30th October, 1912. Well-known for his work in the B.B.C. Drama Repertory Company of which he has been a member since 1942. Address: 124, Rothwell House, New Cavendish Street, W.1. Phone: Langham 4411. Made his first appearance on the stage at the age of four, this was during the First World War and was interrupted by an air raid as were many of his subsequent performances given to the Forces during the more recent Blitz. He started his business life in a solicitor's office but instead of studying at night he spent every evening acting in or producing Amateur Theatricals, Ultimately the stage claimed him and before the war he played in Shakespeare at the Westminster Theatre. This was followed by a period as leading man in a number of Repertory Companies in which he played among other parts—Maxim de Winter in "Rebecca," Stanhope in "Journey's End," Hilary in "Bill of Divorcement," David in "The Shining Hour," Mr. Manningham in "Gaslight" and Danny in "Night Must Fall." He has also produced many plays and toured in "The Rotters" and "East Lynne" (with Eileen Herlie). He first broadcast in 1942 in "Grumpy" with Cyril Maude and soon afterwards joined the B.B.C. Repertory Company with which he has been ever since, having made more than 500 broadcasts to date. In radio he has co-starred with Hermione Baddeley in "Fly Away Herbert" by Gordon Glover; played Lysander in the latest production of "A Midsummer Night's Dream," Uncle Bill in "Scott's Polar Journey," and more recently Bramwell in "The Brontes". He is an expert in dialects, this makes his voice extremely difficult to recognise on the air; his vocal range enables him to portray characters aged from eighteen to eighty years. In October last year his own radio play "An Actor's Life is Not For Me" was broadcast; in this he played the part of Vernon. Recreations: Tennis and cricket. Club: Green Room. Married in March, 1945, to Gerda Benko, fashion artist, of Vienna.

was taught the violin at an early age, his father wanting him to become an eminent classical violinist. At the age of fifteen he was taking lessons at Hackney Music Academy, and began playing at concerts until he was thirteen, when he gained a scholarship to the Trinity College of Music. Gradually he developed an interest in jazz. At sixteen he formed the Magnetic Dance Band, but it failed to attract theatre and dance hall managers, so he became a violinist in the orchestra at the Coliseum Cinema, Ilford. Later he played in various cinemas and dance halls, and finally formed his own band, which became famous at the Astoria and at the Kit-Kat Restaurant, and by 1933 his band was being described as “the finest dance band in the West End.” In the same year he began broadcasting, and his popularity led to regular late-night broadcasting with his well-known signature tune, “In the Mood.” During the war he entertained the troops and did E.N.S.A. concerts, while at the same time continuing his variety and music hall appearances and broadcasting. Records for H.M.V.

LUCAS, LEIGHTON.

Conductor and composer. Son of musical parents, but he never received any formal musical education. Yet he cannot remember the time when he was not composing music. At eleven he went on tour as a ballet dancer with Lady Constance Stuart Richardson, and later appeared in productions of Massine and Diaghileff. His work brought him in touch with Stravinsky, De Falla, Eric Satie, Ansermet, and most of the leaders of modern musical thought, and this period, he says, was his true education in music. At nineteen he first conducted an orchestra when he shared the musical direction of the first London performances of "The Immortal Hour." His first big work to achieve recognition was a Partita for Piano and Chamber Orchestra, which was broadcast in 1934 with his mother as the solo pianist, and himself conducting the London Symphony Orchestra. Since then he has done many compositions, including choral works, several ballets and masques, arrangements from the classics, chamber music and music for films. Has conducted almost every orchestra of note in this country, and has his own chamber music orchestra. Served 4\frac{1}{2} years in the R.A.F.

LUCE, CLAIRE.

Actress. b. Syracuse, New York. Equally well known on the stage, radio and films in England and America. Address: Savoy Hotel, London. Started in Russian ballet at the age of 13, and went into revue—principally Ziegfeld Follies as premiere danseuse. Seen by Arthur Hopkins, who gave her the leading part in "Burlesque" in London, which Barbara Stanwyck was doing in New York. Alternated between musical shows and drama after that, and among favourite parts rates high "Mimi" in "Gay Divorce." First American to entertain troops in the war with E.N.S.A. concert party, France, 1939. First American leading lady at Memorial Theatre, Stratford - on - Avon, 1945 (Robert Atkins was responsible for helping her to fulfil her ambitions). Has televised before and since the war in London and New York, filmed in Hollywood and Elstree. Played the name part in "Anna Christie" on the air, 1946. Hobbies: Writing and painting in oils.

LUCRAFT, HOWARD.

pany at 21 to become a musician, playing electric Hawaiian and Spanish guitars, and doing swing vocals. Played and broadcast with most of the leading bands before forming his own. Joined R.A.F. in 1940, and for two years led his own band, playing at R.A.F. stations. Later at R.A.F. Central Band H.Q., auditioning musicians and organising dance bands for the Force throughout the world. Formed his own new-style band in 1945, and has broadcast regularly since then. Announced by the B.B.C. as “Music that is smooth yet swingy—daring, but discreet.” Until recently his band was resident at the Albany Club. Married to Phyllis Turnbull, whom he met when she was a W.A.A.F. Hobbies: Ice hockey and motoring.

LUMSDEN, NORMAN.
Bass Singer. b. London, 16th September, 1906. Well known in operas, recitals and “Grand Hotel.” Address: 20, Earl’s Terrace, London, W.6. Phone: Western 5041. First appeared in radio operas under Stanford Robinson, and since then has sung many leading parts. On the 200th anniversary of the first performance of Handel’s “Messiah” was chosen to sing the bass solos. Has appeared with most leading choral societies, and sang in Promenade Concerts a year after his first broadcast. Sang in the Russian film, “Volga, Volga,” and in 1946 went to Prague to broadcast and to take part in concerts in Czechoslovakia. Once sang, he says, in a big programme from Birmingham studios with two broken ribs, after accident on the way to the studios—and has no wish to repeat the experience.

versity. Enjoyed best his broadcast "Transatlantic Call" in 1942 on "Cambridge in Wartime," in which he was the "resident Don" with the B.B.C. Rep.
Co. doing the rest. Believes the universities should take a much more active part in broadcasting—because it is one of the greatest means of education ever invented or could be, he says, if the Dons took more interest. One of his chief interests next to France is Adult Education, and takes an active interest in movements such as the W.E.A. Publications include "The Democratic Ideal in Talks. b. Pitton, near Salisbury, 7th February, 1914. Expert on farm and country topics on which subjects he has frequently broadcast. Address: Webb's Farm, Pitton, Salisbury, Wilts. Phone: Farley 224. Comes from a family of farm-workers and peasants who have lived at Pitton for the last three hundred years at least. Father is a small farmer. Was educated at local elementary school and then at Bishop Wordsworth's School, Salisbury, which latter he left when sixteen. Wanted to be a historian and author, but, owing to the depression had to go to work on the farm. Studied birds, insects, plants, agricultural science, local history, archaeology and other country subjects in his spare time. In 1933 began writing about them in the West Country papers, this he continues to do. First broadcast, a Harvest-Home talk in September, 1944. This was followed by a Children's Hour feature in which he, as the farmer, took two girls for a walk around a farm. This programme was successfully launched in April, 1945, and been broadcast every month since under the title of "Cowleaze Farm." Married Hilda Pearce in 1939; they have two small daughters. His father, Edwin Whitlock, has also broadcast on several occasions.

RADIO CORRESPONDENTS

ANDREWS, CYRUS.

AYRE, LESLIE.
Radio Critic, Evening News. b. Newcastle-on-Tyne, 9th April, 1906. Address: Evening News, Carmelite House, London, E.C.4. Phone: Central 6000. Started journalism in the north country as a reporter on the staff of the Newcastle Chronicle group of publications. Interested in radio from the early crystal-set days when he used to listen to 5 NO, Newcastle. Came to London as a staff reporter with the Press Association; travelled over most of the British Isles covering every kind of story—royal tours, murders, speed bids and disasters. Joined the Evening News in 1937 and became its radio critic in 1946. Enthusiasms other than radio: The Story of London, particularly the London of the last century; "playing the piano badly"; butterflies; toy theatres—but not gardening!

BAILY, LESLIE.

BARRINGTON, JONAH.
Radio Critic, Sunday Chronicle, composer, conductor and author. b. London, 20th August, 1904. Address: Far Corner, Peaslake, Surrey. Phone: Abinger 147. Formerly known as Cyril C. Dalmaine. Educated Eastbourne and Royal College of Music, studying violin and composition at the latter. Spent several years as violin master, chorus master and conductor until 1933, when he became radio critic (and later literary critic) of the Sunday Express. Became radio critic of the Daily Express in 1935, under the name of Jonah Barrington, which name he adopted by deed poll. He was in charge of the Daily Express short-wave listening station during the war when he invented the name "Lord Haw-Haw." Became radio producer for E.N.S.A. in 1942. Joined the Sunday Chronicle in November, 1943. He has also worked as a film critic and dramatic critic. Is the composer of numerous musical education works, part-songs, etc. Included among the books he has written are: "Foundations of Violin Playing," "Lord Haw-Haw of Zeesen," "Pathways to the Proms," "And Master of None," etc. Is an Associate of the Royal College of Music. Hobbies: Cooking and country life. (See also main section.)

BOWMAN, FRED.
Radio Correspondent, Birmingham Post. Radio Officer, Mercantile Marine, and technical instructor. b. Leeds, 2nd September, 1887. Address: 2, Myton Crofts, Myton Road, Leamington Spa. Educated Central High School, Leeds. Senior Radio Officer, BUCKHAM, BERNARD.

LAWS, FREDERICK.

LAWLER, MICHAEL.

Radio Journalist, Brighton Evening Argus, author, etc. b. Bitterne, Hants. 9th November, 1910. Has written several text books on radio. Address: D. 32, Du Cane Court, London, S.W.17. Phone: Balham 3826. Adopted radio engineering as a career after a course of study at King's College, London University, but found this "very slow" and, starting to write for the popular radio journals and newspapers, became a journalist and publicist. Career interrupted in 1939, when he was commissioned as a 2nd Lieut. in the R.A. Lost right leg in 1940, but continued to serve until the end of the war when he reached the rank of Major. Demobbed in 1945 and joined advertising agency in creative capacity, following journalism at the same time. Has written several works of fiction—two to be published shortly. Is fond of riding, golf, tennis, swimming and says that the latter has much improved since he lost his leg. Operates on his own radio transmitter. States that his big ambition is, one day, to be a writer.

LENNOX, ROGER.

Radio Critic, Bristol Evening World. b. Kettering, 1905. Address: Evening World, Colston Avenue, Bristol, 1. Phone: Bristol 24100. Went to Bristol at the age of ten months, and has lived there ever since. Joined staff of the Western Daily Press as a reporter, 1921; left to join Evening World, 1929. Was one of the first provincial radio critics. Took a leading part in the agitations which led to the splitting of the West and Welsh regions. More recently opposed the threatened merger of these two stations. Has been on the air since the early days of the Cardiff studios when he first took part in a poetic drama broadcast. Has given many talks on a variety of subjects, ranging from West Country news to how to stage a play. Is founder and chairman of the Bristol Wartime Entertainers who took two thousand free shows to Servicemen during the war. Is known as a sturdy champion of West Country artists and writers. He is also a film critic. Hobby: Drama.
